No. 836.

Yesterday arrived a Mail from France.

German News Papers mention the following melancholy Accident, in an Article from Ulm in Bavaria.

ON the 31st ult. O. S. at 8 o'Clock in the Morning, the Burgo-master Harsdorffer going to the Council fired a Pistol, as he enter'd the Hall, and shot the Burgo-master de Besserer dead as he sate in his usual Place opposite to the Table. So unexpected an Affair startled the other Members to such a degree, that many of 'em tumbled off of their Chairs. M. Harsdorffer had no sooner committed this Murder, but he went to the Guard-house and surrender'd himself Prisoner, and in the Evening he was carry'd under a strong Guard to the Town Gaol. What was his Motive for killing his Colleague, nobody can conceive: Whatever it was, he shew'd not the least Concern for what he had done all that Day; but said on the contrary more than once, If it was again to be done I would do it: To Day indeed he appears to be in a better Temper, seems to be sorry that he has kill'd M. de Besserer, and very much bemoans his Widow who is big with Child.

A Letter of the 8th N. S. from Vienna says, that the Count d'Eckersort, who is Landlord of the House where the Count de Seckendorf lives, has given him Warning to find another House, upon which 'tis said the Count told him, that as his Lease was not out till St. George's Day, he reckon'd the Council of War would take Care to procure him another by that time. The Count has still a Guard upon him of 12 Soldiers, 2 Corporals, and a Captain.

The Disgrace of the Count Sulkowski, continues to be the Subject of all Conversation at Dresden. They say the Blow was struck at Vienna and Petersburg, and that Prince Lubomirski, who returned to Dresden last Month from Petersburg, was partly the Instrument of it. The Papers and most of the Effects seized upon him, as well as a Service of Plate, to the Tune of 80,000 Crowns, which he had just before, were seized and carried to Court. The Privy Counsellor de Bruhl has taken an Inventory of the Treasure kept in that called the Green Vault, of which this outed Minister had the Inspection. As to the Regiment of Life Guards, of which he was Colonel, there is no doubt but it will be conferred on the Prince Royal. They say, that the Count de Manteuffel, who has been retir'd for some time at Berlin, will be re-called to the Saxon Court and have some Employment.

Letters from Florence say, that some of the Great Duke's Guards who were masqued, having quarrelled with one of the old Grenadiers of the Country, who defended himself stoutly and fought his Way, retreating till he had reach'd the Convent of St. Maria-Novella, to which he retired. The Guards were so nettled at the brave Resistance he made, that they return'd soon after in a greater Number to the Convent, and insolently demanded that the Grenadier might be delivered up to them, threatening that otherwise they would break open the Doors. The Fathers of the Convent giving immediate Notice of this Affair to Stopani the Pope's Nuncio, the latter had recourse to the Prince of Craon, by whose Authority the Tumult was soon quash'd. But the Minds of the National Soldiers and the Lorainers, which were imbitter'd one against another upon other Accounts, being by that Skirmish work'd up to a Ferment, there were some more Skirmishes next Day, and the Soldiers on both Sides walking up and down in Bodies through the Town, some great Disorder would probably have happen'd, if the Government had not sent Orders for every Man of 'em to return to their Quarters, and not to stir out at their Peril.
